

Steve Ison-Founder of Rebecca Creek Distillery

Having a passion for the spirits industry, Steve Ison went out in 2009 and researched several distilleries and still manufacturers. He began to gather research to launch one of the first distilleries in South Texas since prohibition. Ison built Rebecca Creek Distillery in 2009 and launched Enchanted Rock Vodka in 2010. The project was always all about the whiskey and the distillery began making whiskey in 2010 and aging it in oak barrels at the San Antonio location. Since then Rebecca Creek Distillery has grown to become one of the largest craft distilleries in the country with distribution in 22 states. Rebecca Creek Distillery is nestled in the Hill Country and receives over 30,000 visitors annually. Rebecca Creek Distillery makes the following products: Enchanted Rock Vodka, Rebecca Creek Whiskey, and Texas Ranger Whiskey.
